I thank everyone who has helped out with feedback, fixes and contributions. Which is the best 3.5 edition "Character Generator", for Windows, that you can download for free? I have the Redblade program, but it's old, and could use some updating. log in or register to remove this ad I like the character generator available here, is there a place to download the program?. I was working on one a while ago. It's a one button automated character/NPC builder and generator. You push button, you get character. It's an old VB app. Would there be interest in bringing something like this on-line? An OGL version? It's a lot of work to say the least! Regards, J. Bastille There is a group of people still working on the Hero Forge project. You can download it here. I don't have Microsoft Excel, I was looking for a program just like Redblade, but improved. I don't want a program where it does everything for me. I want to be able to input my rolled Ability Scores (that were rolled using real d6's), I want to be able to select skills, feats, equipment and spells. The program should give me the overall weight of my purchased items, and the total cost of them. PCGen is a pretty sweet program, you have to add the deities by working with code due to copyright. I've done searches and didn't turn up anything regarding this...has anybody added all of the D&D 3.5e core deities already?, and have they uploaded the modified file to download, so that no work needs to be done?. Google "PCGen 3.5e datasets" should be the 1st or 2nd link. Okay, I've created a "players handbook" folder under the "wizards of the coast" directory, and placed the modified ph.deities.lst inside, see below... "C:\Games\Dungeons and Dragons\pcgen\data\35e\wizards of the coast\players handbook" It doesn't load the changes when I launch the program, because I still can't select a deity. So do I need to rename ph.deities.lst to rsrd.deities.lst, and overwrite the file within "C:\Games\Dungeons and Dragons\pcgen\data\35e\wizards of the coast\rsrd" instead?. Okay I've got it working now, is there any other files besides the deities.lst that needs to be used in conjunction with it, or am I good?. Alright, sorry for posting so many times people, thanks to everyone who posted. I'm really happy with PCGen, and will be sticking with it. However, "Hero Lab" will not be getting my money, after reading about the program being heavily DRM protected. It isn't bad, I've only had to contact them about my license once because i had to reinstall it on a new laptop right after i had installed it on one that had gotten stolen. Sent from my SM-G900P using Tapatalk When I was gaming before I used books like Unearthed Arcana and other support books to create characters as I am the type I can't stand to use run of the mill characters I love using advanced characters that stand out somehow. Is there a generator that includes the support books for 3E and 3.5E? Seeing as how those books were never released under the OGL. you will likely not find one that does those. You can use both PCGen and Herolab to create your own data, and I know that people have made files for books not under the OGL and hosted them on their own sites or repositories. But you'd have to find them. Dnd 5e Custom Character Sheet Maker. D&D 5e character sheet in color | d&d 5e character sheet in grayscale.
